

■ CT Business Writer Wins Award

Deborah Nason, a freelance business writer based in Guilford, won a first place award from the Connecticut Society of Professional Journalists at SPJ's annual awards dinner in New Haven last month, for a story she wrote for the October 2006 issue of CT Business Magazine.

Nason's story, entitled "Insourcing in Connecticut," beat out eight other contenders—seven from Connecticut Magazine and one from The Day—to garner top honors.

Nason's story explored the impact of foreign investment on the state's economy.

As part of the competition, out-of-state judges determined the merits of approximately 1,000 articles, photographs, illustrations, headlines, layouts and supplements, offering awards to journalists in a variety of categories.
